

Visiting Fellowships

2023 – 2024 Application Guidelines

The Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies promotes excellence in the study of Islam and Muslim societies. The Centre has developed an international network of personal and institutional contacts to enable liaison, dialogue and exchange between the Islamic and Western worlds of learning. Protocols of academic cooperation exist between the Centre and many institutions worldwide, facilitating the exchange of scholars and researchers. The Centre's programme of Visiting Fellowships and Scholarships plays a key role in these international activities. Since its inception in 1987 the programme has brought scholars and students from more than 50 countries in Asia, Africa, the Americas and Europe to Oxford.

Currently, research at the Centre is concentrated within the following four broad areas, although we welcome fellowship applications from scholars conducting research in a diverse range of topics:

- Muslim Societies Past and Present
- Identity and Citizenship: Muslims in Britain and the West
- Classical Islamic Sciences
- Economic and Human Development and Islamic Finance
- Public Health, Science and Technology in Muslim Societies

Applications are tenable at the Centre for the academic year from October 2023 to June 2024. Non-stipendiary Visiting Fellowships awards are also available for shorter periods.

The Centre generally holds one application round during each academic year:

The applications window opens in October 2022 and closes in January 2023 for those wishing to apply for stipendiary Visiting Fellowships.

Applications for non-stipendiary options can also be made in a second round, which is open from March to May for October 2023 entry.

Application Round

There are two types of stipendiary visiting fellowships:

Abdul Aziz Al-Mutawa and Muhammed bin Ladin Visiting Fellowships

- Two Visiting Fellowships are offered to support research in any area of the arts, humanities or social sciences relevant to the study of Islam or the Muslim world, including but not limited to anthropology, economics, geography, history, international relations, law, literature, philosophy, politics, religion, sociology, science and society.
- Applicants will normally be established academics but scholars or writers at the postdoctoral or equivalent level are also eligible. Each Visiting Fellow is provided with a stipend of £5,000 (with waiver of any bench fees), shared office accommodation, and membership of the Common Room.

Applying for a Visiting Fellowship

A full application consists of the following documents uploaded or emailed separately to the Centre:

- (1) Completed application form (completed via the Centre's website at <https://www.oxcis.ac.uk/visiting-fellowships>)
- (2) A brief description of proposed research (up to 1000 words)
- (3) Samples of publications, if available (a maximum of two)
- (4) A curriculum vitae
- (5) Letters of recommendation (signed and dated) from two persons familiar with the applicant's work, to be sent directly to the Centre. They will not be acknowledged.

Items 1-4 above should be submitted via the Centre's website. Letters of recommendation (5 above) should be sent to visiting.fellowships@oxcis.ac.uk or by post to: The Academic Office, Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies, Marston Road, Oxford, OX3 0EE, United Kingdom.

It is the applicant's responsibility to ensure that all application materials including recommendation letters are submitted by the closing date. Complete applications will be acknowledged.

Selection Process

All eligible applications will be considered by the Centre's Visiting Fellowships Selection Committee, through screening, shortlisting and selection stages. Outcomes are generally notified by early March.

The criteria for selection of Visiting Fellows are:

- evidence of academic excellence including quality of publications
- relevance of the proposed research to the overall aims of the Centre

- relevance of the proposed research to the current academic research priorities of the Centre
- potential to contribute to and benefit from interdisciplinary interaction with other Centre Fellows and/or Visiting Fellows

At the shortlisting stage applicants may be contacted to verify that they are still interested in pursuing their application and that they have the financial means to take up their award if selected.

All applicants will be contacted with an outcome:

- An offer of a stipendiary award (if a stipendiary award is requested)
- An offer of a non-stipendiary award with no fee payable to the Centre (even if a stipendiary award was applied for)
- An offer of a non-stipendiary award with a request for fees to contribute to Centre costs.
- A notification that no award has been offered.

Please note that the failure to award a visiting fellowship does not necessarily reflect on the deemed quality of the application and therefore the Centre does not routinely provide feedback on applications. There is a limited number of available spaces at the Centre and the criteria above may mean that one high quality application is favoured above another.

If an offer is made the applicant will receive a letter detailing the exact terms of the award including any stipend payable by the Centre or fee payable to the Centre, together with the proposed dates of the fellowship.
